FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

TechFlow to Reveal Expense Management Breakthroughs at Virtual FinTech Summit 2025

Denver, September 22, 2025 – TechFlow, a leading innovator in financial technology solutions, announced today its participation in the upcoming Virtual FinTech Summit 2025, where the company's CEO, Bradle George, will unveil how TechFlow reduced expense processing times by 80% through the use of virtual corporate cards.

As organizations face mounting challenges in controlling spend and eliminating manual financial workflows, TechFlow's virtual corporate card platform is helping finance teams replace outdated processes with automation and real-time insights.

"Accounting teams spend countless hours chasing receipts and reconciling statements," said Bradley George, CEO of TechFlow. "We built TechFlow to solve that problem at scale. Our solution gives finance leaders visibility, control, and time back — while empowering employees with smarter ways to manage expenses."

During the Summit, Bradley George will host an exclusive webinar attended by over 200 finance leaders, controllers, and operations managers. The session will highlight how businesses can leverage automation to save 15+ hours per week on expense management and boost overall financial efficiency.
